

BRAZILIAN JOURNAL OF BIOLOGY

VOLUME 61

FEBRUARY, 2001

NUMBER 1

EDITORIAL NOTE

The Association of the Brazilian Journal of Biology is now officially established and more than 100 participants are now the first associates. This will enable the International Institute of Ecology to maintain a scientific publication of the highest level aimed at the preservation and discussion of research results on the Biology of Neotropics. The IIE is now in full negotiations with international book sellers to distribute the Journal worldwide. This, together with the new indexation proposals will increase the impact factor of the publication as well as will help to disseminate the journal to a wide international audience.
